HOLDUP OF EL CERRITO BRANCH BANK IS CONFESSED

Local Pair Tell Of Robbery Plot; Third Man Named

Two Richmond men yesterday afternoon allegedly confessed to the robbery of the El Cerrito branch of the Mechanics Bank of $1200 on September 5th, and implicated a third man in the robbery.

The two men, whose confession District Attorney James F. Hoey declared was made to him yesterday afternoon are Edward J. Murphy, 45, and Floyd Hoage, 21. The third man, whom Murphy and Hoage named as a companion, is Fred Turner, address unknown. Police are searching for Turner.

The two men will be arraigned before Justice of the Peace A. H. MacKinnon this morning at 9:30 at El Cerrito. District Attorney Hoey will be present to prosecute the case.

Apartment Raided

Murphy and Hoage, who were hiding in an apartment house in San Francisco, were arrested by San Francisco police. The officers, acting on a tip given Contra Costa county authorities, raided the apartment and arrested the two after a brief struggle.

Bandits Identified

Edward Fleischer, clerk at the El Cerrito bank, was summoned to San Francisco and he positively identified Murphy as one of the men who took part in the holdup.

Confession Story

Police then returned the two men to Martinez where they were questioned by District Attorney J. F. Hoey. Both broke down and signed a written confession that they had robbed the bank.

Held Up Bank

At the bank, the confession says, Turner walked in and with his gun covered Fleischer. Murphy (Continued on Page Eight)

ALL RICHMOND TO MARCH IN PARADE

BIG EVENT WILL START AT SEVEN

Richmond today was prepared for the biggest celebration ever staged here—the NRA parade this evening.

All day yesterday and up to a late hour last night John A. Miller, parade chairman, was receiving last minute entries for the event.

From all appearances, Miller stated, the parade and celebration will be one of the biggest things ever staged in this city.

Once again Miller stressed the fact that everyone must be on hand at the formation place not later than 6:45. The parade MUST start at 7 o'clock, Miller reiterated.

On Page 8 of this morning's RECORD-HERALD will be found a map showing where each organization will form for the parade. Paraders have been urged to study this map to familiarize themselves with the situation.

To avoid any delays, Miller last night met with all chairmen and sub-chairmen of the nine divisions in the parade. Last minute instructions were given to these chairmen.

The parade will be led by the crack 30th Infantry band, from the San Francisco Presidio. The group will march off from First street to Sixteenth and Macdonald, and will then counter-march to the Memorial park where a program will be held.

It is estimated that more than 14,000 persons will take part in the celebration.

Parade spectators were warned to leave their cars at home.

Damage Action Is Continued Until Monday

MARTINEZ, Oct. 26.—Trial of a suit for $9,340 damages filed by Esther and Paul Shaffer of Richmond against Harry W. Wense, as operator of the Richmond Yacht harbor, was continued until Monday morning by Superior Judge A. B. McKenzie today.

Damages of $7,500 are asked for injury to Mrs. Shaffer and $1,500 is asked by Shaffer for loss of his wife's comfort and society.

COMPROMISE IS ACCEPTED IN STRIKE

HANFORD, Oct. 26.—UP—End of the month-old strike of 10,000 San Joaquin valley cotton pickers was seen tonight when 3000 strikers in the Corcoran area voted to accept the offer of 75 cents a hundredweight and return to work.

Raymond Cato, chief of the state highway patrol, telephoned the information to Governor James Rolph Jr. from Tulare.

The vote to accept the compromise wage scale suggested by Governor Rolph's fact-finding committee, and approved yesterday by growers, came after strikers had been addressed by Frank McDonald, state labor commissioner.

It came, likewise, after the Corcoran camp of 2500 Mexican pickers had flatly refused to vacate and asked the Mexican government for repatriation.

Cato told the governor that "everything is in good shape, except in the orange belt near Porterville." Cato said he was going there in the morning.

Communist agitators tried to prevent the pickers from returning to work, Cato said.

"If we can get rid of the Reds, everything will be O. K.," the highway chief asserted.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 26.—UP—Depositors of the closed California Trust & Savings bank of Sacramento will receive $3,630,926.70 as an initial dividend soon. It was announced tonight by Edward Rainey, superintendent of banks.

The statement was issued after telephonic information from Washington that the Reconstruction Finance corporation had approved a $2,000,000 loan, to be used with cash in hand to pay 25 per cent of the claims of 19,737 depositors and others whose claims have been filed and approved.

The loan was the first granted to the Pacific coast through the recently created deposit liquidation board.

An initiation featured last night's meeting of the Richmond Eagles at Brotherhood hall.

The work was staged under the direction of the Contra Costa County Council of Eagles with A. Pelly, lodge president, presiding.

During the business meeting plans were discussed for participation in the NRA parade here this evening.

A banquet was served at the conclusion of the affair.

Racket Is Warned In Fete Plan

Discovery of a "racket" in connection with tonight's NRA parade was made yesterday when an unidentified man started soliciting funds for entries in the parade.

As a result, John A. Miller, parade chairman, declared that there is no charge of any kind for entries of floats or groups in the celebration this evening.

According to stories told by merchants in the Twenty-third street district, the man appeared at their stores yesterday and wanted to know whether they planned to enter in the parade Friday night.

When informed that they would, the man then declared that he was from the parade committee and that the charges for entering the celebration would be from $3 to $5.

Whether or not he received any money could not be learned but it is known that at several establishments he was told to "get going and stay gone."

As a result of this man's activities, merchants were told to be on a lookout for the man and if he should ask them for donations, police should be called at once.

CAR THIEF IS INJURED IN ACCIDENT

The kidnapping and robbery of an Oakland man ended last night at Pinole in the arrest and injury of one man.

The arrested man is Roy Davis, 28, who is being held for Oakland police at the county jail at Martinez. Davis is suffering from cuts on the head and face received in an automobile accident.

According to police reports, Davis accosted Louis Cardoza, 28, of Oakland at Golden Gate and San Pablo avenues. He stuck a gun in Cardoza's chest and ordered him to drive Davis' down San Pablo avenue.

Under the muzzle of the gun, Cardoza did as ordered. At Pinole Davis ordered him to stop the car, police reported. He then robbed Cardoza of $10 in currency and drove off. Cardoza reported the theft at once.

HIGH GRIDDERS ARE DEFEATED BY JR. GAELS

(By CHARLES CLUM)

St. Mary's high of Berkeley defeated Richmond yesterday afternoon on their home field by a score of 21 to 7, but for three quarters of a hectic football game the Richmond high varsity held a strong St. Mary's eleven scoreless. It appeared as if Richmond would score their greatest upset of the season until Engert, a shifty backfieldman, threw a pass to a hefty end for a first and ten on the Oiler's three yard line. For three plays the gallant Navy Blue and Red withstood the "Gael" onslaught on their goal. The last play saw the pigskin float over the end zone into the waiting arms of a St. Mary's end. The nearest Richmond player barely missed blocking the pass. It was over poor McLaughlin, one of the gamest players who ever donned an Oiler uniform. The sterling end was knocked "cold" on the play.

When this same Engert promptly dropped the oval over the Oiler crossbar, tying the score, Richmond suddenly crumpled from the terrific battering of the St. Mary's bombers.

At that Richmond had led St. Mary's 7 to 0 until ten minutes before the end of the game. Local rooters went mad when head bomber Jelich flipped as pretty a pass as could be to dependable Moltoza in the third quarter. Moltoza, captain of the Oiler's, lateraled to Meredith who was out in the clear and scampered 18 yards to the St. Mary's goal. Smith converted with a neat place kick.

In the first quarter Richmond consistently bottled up the St. Mary's offensive by playing the "open" game right at the start of the contest. St. Mary's kicked off and Jelich twisted and squirmed to his own 34 yard line. He flipped a neat spiral to Smith. Two more went wild and Quarterback Smith punted deep into the home team's territory. St. Mary's running plays were stopped cold and a poor kick gave the Oiler's possession of the ball on the Junior Gael 34 yard marker. Again and again Jelich flipped those forward passes. He was clicking one for every two attempts. The driving and hustling Oiler's were finally halted on the Gael 8 yard line. This was the nearest penetration to either team's end zone in the initial period.

A poor kick that went out of bounds on the Oiler 33 yard stripe opened the second stanza. For variation Jelich faked a pass and went 6 yards before being nailed. Meredith stopped on the next play. Jelich lunged pass to Moltoza falling just when it seemed Captain "Moosie" would break right into the clear and into the St. Mary's goal line. Fourth down and Richmond got off a beautiful kick that almost cost St. Mary's the loss of the ball on their own 10 yard line. Once more the Gael is stopped cold on his running plays and once more Richmond takes the ball deep in St. Mary's territory.

But it became apparent that St. Mary's, a shrewd bunch of players, had spotted the Richmond method of attempting to complete passes and they smothered Moltoza's attempts. On the next bark of signals the Oiler's called for a play with Smith on the receiving end. Smith took the pigskin under the arms of three Junior Gaels and with but a few minutes before the end of the first half Richmond was searing the life out of St. Mary's supporters.

On the St. Mary's eleven yard line and first down with but a few minutes before the gun ending the first half, Quarterback Smith called for a cut-back over center that was good for four yards. Two more shots and Richmond lost the ball on the "Panthers" 7 yard line.

Midway through the third quarter Jelich threw a neat forward pass to Captain Moltoza who was down on St. Mary's 44 yard line.

Just A Poor Coyote!

The "big, bad wolf" which "haunted" at the door of William Bentley in Los Angeles (really) the other day is pictured above looking suspiciously at a lone coyote. Anyhow, price $5.00. He finally captured the beast after a chase and a puffing and huffing of several blocks, hauled it to Newton st. police station where they did away it was on its way to the "Last Roundup."

Speaking Of Sports

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—UP.—Last year the nation's 12 best football teams were generally ranked as follows:

- 1—Southern California
- 2—Michigan
- 3—Purdue
- 4—Colgate
- 5—Pittsburgh
- 6—Tennessee
- 7—Texas Christian
- 8—Notre Dame
- 9—Wisconsin
- 10—Ohio State
- 11—Auburn
- 12—Nebraska

Five of this group already have been beaten before the end of October and two more tied. But this year's national champions promise to come from the remaining few.

Southern California will be near the top again, and may actually defend its laurels. Michigan will make another strong bid for Big Ten honors, and must be considered in the national running.

Michigan wanted the Rose Bowl game last year, but Pittsburgh was selected before the Big Ten faculty representatives had a chance to vote on a proposal to allow the Wolverines to go to Pasadena. It is believed that the Big Ten will grant permission this year for the conference champion to participate in the Rose Bowl game, provided the west coast officials extend an invitation.

Pittsburgh is strong again, and Colgate, although playing a light schedule, promises to hang up another record record. Last year Andy Kerr's team was undefeated, untied and unscored on.

The strength in the South has shifted, with Tennessee and Auburn beaten in early games. Duke topped Tennessee 10-2, and Georgia Tech trimmed Auburn, 16-6. Duke, Georgia, Louisiana State and Kentucky loom strong in the South.

In the Southwest, Texas Christian is out of the running, having lost to Arkansas, 13-0. Texas A. & M. Arkansas and Southern Methodist are the Southwestern leaders.

Nebraska is back with another great team, probably the strongest Dana Bible has had since he left Texas A. & M. to coach the Cornhuskers. Last year Nebraska lost only one game—that by one point

The DAILY WASHINGTON

MERRY GO ROUND

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Here is a brief stock-taking of where the U. S. A. is headed economically under the New Deal. It is based upon some reports prepared for President Roosevelt by his experts and from other reports, entirely unofficial. It is by no means, infallible.

GENERAL: The gap between Capital and Labor is widening. Big Business, ready to yield to radical socialism during the Bank Holiday, is now cocky, confident and fighting every inch of the way against Government regulation. Labor meanwhile sees its first opportunity to "get something."

This growing gap is one of the most serious things confronting the country. It may lead to drastic measures—even force.

AGRICULTURAL: Another gap—that between farm prices and industrial prices—also is serious. It is due not so much to the NRA as to two other factors. One is the farmer's debt burden. The other is his inability to organize.

Under the NRA, industry can ignore the old Anti-Trust laws, can combine to fix prices etc. Organization of most of industry is easy. It is relatively concentrated in the hands of a few people.

But there are some 30,000,000 farmers. Organizing them is next to impossible. Those running the farm strike only scratch the surface in numbers. Farmers won't be better off until they learn to stick together.

DEBTS: Lending more money to the farmers is not appreciated by them. Most of the farms are mortgaged up to the roof. More money would just bog them down. What they want are prices.

The various monetary measures proposed by Roosevelt all are for the purpose of wiping out debt burdens. With inflation, mortgages would be paid off easily. But this is a haphazard solution. Some of Roosevelt's friends claim he is afraid of more stringent measures. A capital levy would accomplish exactly the same thing, but the thought of it sends cold shivers down the spinal columns of big business.

ECONOMIC PLANNING: This is on the way. The hit-and-miss system which, for instance, condones new coal mines, while others were not making money and while thousands of coal miners are out of work, can not continue, if the country is going to keep its head above water.

Economic planning, however, will come slowly. Roosevelt has his hands too full right now to attempt any real study of it.

PUBLIC WORKS: A certain amount of economic planning is taking place in regard to these projects. The Director of the Budget is allowing no federal projects to be built if their upkeep subsequently will swell his expense.

Delay in Public Works has been due chiefly to the States and Municipalities in standing up to the counter and asking for money. The funds are there if they can satisfy requirements.

BUSINESS: The recent upward trend is having a hard time sliding further. Retail sales failed to record their usual seasonal gain during mid-October. The chief difficulty is that prices have gone up beyond the capacity of people to pay.

NRA: Chiseling continues on a wide scale. Codes to the extent of 135 have been signed, 59 are in effect. Most employers are going to all sorts of lengths to keep from hiring extra help.

The NRA is reaching the interminably tedious task of enforcing its codes, but not doing a great deal about it.

COMMODITY PRICES: Roosevelt is trying to boost them, but if he succeeds, factory workers will demand higher wages to compensate for the increased cost of living. It is an unending circle.

PIFFLE

Henry Bruere, Roosevelt's new banking coordinator, has two things of which he is most proud. One is his son, the other is the long list of corporations on which he serves as director.

One day his son having just graduated from Harvard, went with his father while the latter made the rounds of the great banks and companies on which he serves as director.

"Well, what do you think of it, son?" asked old Henry, proudly.

"Piffle," replied the younger.

"Just pure piffle!"

NOTE: Not long ago, Bruere threatened to cut off his son's expense money if he did not come back from Paris. Young Bruere called his bluff. He told him to go ahead. Next day he got a job running a taxi.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Recognition of Russia is going to be a great boon to the State Department. The Career Boys were stagnated for lack of promotions—Soon about 100 will go to American consulates all over Russia and to an American Embassy in Russia—Jobs will be vacant for others down the line.

The State Department's chief expert on Russia, Robert F. Kelley, has never been to Russia. For years he fought recognition. The wife of Maxim Litvinov, who will dicker with Roosevelt over recognition, is the niece of Sir Maurice Lowe, late British newspaper correspondent in Washington—She has the reputation of having one of the iciest tongues in Europe—Paig de Casaurane, Mexican secretary of state, is expected to be the bad boy of the Pan-American Conference in Montevideo. He has some trouble-making questions to ask the United States—Paig has now embarked on a goodwill tour of South America, to enlist support for his program. But wise old Cordell Hull is traveling a few days behind him—He will pick up the pieces.

Your Good HEALTH

By CLAUD N. CHRISMAN, M.D.

Sleeping Sickness, the Mystical, Often Fatal Disease

AS this is written the last report we have from the sleeping sickness epidemic in the Middle West is 910 cases and 160 deaths.

Most of the cases have occurred outside of St. Louis proper, but the corporate limits of St. Louis have not been changed since 1876 and the cases in St. Louis County are simply in what would be the suburbs.

Some few cases have appeared in surrounding cities, but fewer than would be expected.

Cases of sleeping sickness have been occurring every year in St. Louis, the greatest numbers being reported in 1919, 1924, 1922. Fewer epidemics have occurred in the United States than in other countries. The outbreak which most closely resembled the present one in numbers and peculiarities of the disease occurred on the western side of the Inland Sea of Japan in 1924.

UNLIKE this one, the previous epidemics have occurred in winter and spring. Ninety per cent of the cases have been in children about 15 years of age. 21 per cent occur in the age group of 15-34, 30 per cent in ages of 35-54, and 30 per cent have been among those over 55. This is quite unusual, as it generally occurs much more frequently in children and young adults. The highest death rate has been in the older group, that is, about 30 per cent.

THE symptoms of the cases now under supervision are rather unusual. They are not having the drooping of the eyelids, and the peculiar squinting is much less common. They have a general condition of fever and vomiting, with either constipation or bad breath. There is not so much sleeping, but the patients are apathetic and have an immobile facial expression. Stupor, coma, or delirium, stiff neck and headache, pain in legs, tremor and rigidity are common. The varying symptoms of brain trouble are prominent.

THE government, the local hospitals and all the large laboratories of the United States are working day and night in the search for the cause and possible cure of the trouble. This is an unusual opportunity for the study of the disease, and all the facilities that other and brains can bring together are studying the problem. Various reports of success have reached the public.

FRESH evidence was discovered that the disease is due to a filterable virus. Dr. Karl Edward Rosenow of the Mayo Clinic has been working in St. Louis in an attempt to transmit the disease with similar symptoms and pathological findings to monkeys and other animals. These diseased animals are being used to inoculate still others, and it is hoped in these repeated experiments to develop a serum that will cure and eventually prevent the disease.

DR. ROSENOW has returned to the Mayo Clinic at Rochester and reports still further confirmation of his findings as his experiments are continued. It is hoped that as a result of this serious epidemic much real progress will be made in this field. Many weeks of intensive research work doubtless lie ahead. Certain rather definite conclusions have been reached.

THE infection is not carried by milk or water. It is seldom that two cases occur in the same family. It is probably not contagious by direct contact. Suspicion has been cast upon insect carriers, possibly the mosquito. The efforts to connect the trouble with infantile paralysis has led to no definite results.

SOME of our older practitioners recall the influenza epidemics of 1889 and 1906-7 and the frequent evidences of brain complications we met then, which much resembled those found in the current brain ailment. Our one hope at present is in continued intensive study. We must recognize the disease promptly, isolate it rigidly, and screen all patients from each other and from outsiders.

Ham in Cider

When you bake ham or even boil it, use half apple cider and half water and you will get a subtle, delicate flavor that will make every one. Ham prepared this way is also good when sliced cold.

SMART WOMAN DEPENDS UPON RIGHT MAKE-UP

By JACQUELINE HUNT

WHETHER you are a lovely lady or an ugly duckling, the proper use of make-up cannot help but improve your appearance. Somehow, you never realize what a wonderful thing make-up is until you can actually see the transformation of a woman who is already pretty into a creature who is absolutely ravishing.

When you see a pretty woman you usually think that it is unnecessary to improve on nature in her case—yet when you come down to details you will see how a touch of mascara will add just the right depth to her eyes, or how a light sweep of eyebrow pencil tapering down at the outer ends of the brows will make lovely eyes larger and lovelier, how a skillfully blended powder that just matches the complexion tone will bring out all the freshness and youthful glow of her skin without being at all apparent.

An ugly woman? You cannot expect miracles, of course, but even the ugly woman can acquire at least a measure of good looks if she will let her cosmetics help her and she can look immaculate and tastefully groomed. Her harsher features can be softened until they are not conspicuous and her nice or so-so features can become really striking.

Manufacturers of cosmetics are studying the needs of women and are making powders that actually blend with the skin tones, rouges and lip pastes that give color and sparkle to dull skins without being at all obvious, creams, lotions and precious ingredients that are intended to correct all types of skin faults and help you find real beauty.

Your only responsibility is learning how to use them. Learn to select the right cosmetics for your skin first. Although the use of cosmetics is one of the most ancient arts, our grandmothers had only "paint" and cheap pink or white chalk to improve their facial looks. You have literally hundreds of cosmetics and colors of powders and rouges and lipsticks from which to choose. When you find the right cosmetics, learn how to apply them.

The importance of this point is impressed upon me every time I meet a woman whose glaring red, artificial-looking mouth proclaims her an amateur where cosmetics are concerned. Since lips are about the worst offenders, I'd like to give you a few hints on applying lip color. First of all, if your complexion tends to be florid, do not choose a vivid red or orange lipstick. It will only make you look more like a boiled lobster. Select a dark red lipstick with perhaps just the vaguest hint of purple in its tones. Whatever your coloring, do not get a lipstick that is too vivid.

There are three ways of applying lipstick so that it will appear natural and not too heavy. Try each one and see which makes your mouth more shapely and naturally colored. First touch the rouge lightly to your lips, then using one finger, blend the paste evenly over your lips, keeping within the outer margin of your natural lips, but carrying the color inside just enough so there will not be a dark line where your lips meet. Study the appearance of your lips and then remove the color with cleansing cream and tissues and try this method:

Apply lip rouge only to your upper lip, then bite your lips together so that some of the color is transferred from your upper to your lower lip. Smooth the color if necessary. If your mouth is well shaped, you may like this method of applying lip color. If it is not entirely satisfactory try a third method.

Apply the color liberally to both the upper and lower lip, keeping the paste well within the natural lines, and then use a soft tissue and press your lips on it to remove the excess color. Your lips will be evenly colored and show a smooth finish. I like this method, but my lips being naturally dry, I usually smoothe a little softening cream or lip pomade into my lips after the blotting. The extra oil will prevent the lips from feeling dry and requiring frequent moistening.

I'll tell you more about using your cosmetics in tomorrow's column.

Closed Vegetable Chest
A closed vegetable chest costs little more than an open one, but is worth the difference. The one I have in mind is perforated to give the vegetables the air they need to keep from spoiling. It is twenty-four inches high, fifteen inches wide and seven-and-a-half inches deep. It may be had in green, white, ivory or blue, to match your kitchen color scheme.

The seated figure wears a tunic frock in ribbed silk with a youthful bow posed over the chin. The case-sleeve detail is effective, as is the belt.

More formal and in brief length is the tunic dress, the top white with gleaming metal threads, and the skirt in black Jubba cloth. A Chinese red belt makes a gay dash of color.

SOMETHING NEW FOR EVERY DAY

By JUDITH WILSON

HOMEMAKERS need an unlimited number of tricks up their sleeves if they are to keep appetites alert three times a day, three hundred and sixty-five days out of the year. It sounds like you might need a clipping bureau to keep you supplied with ideas, doesn't it? But really it isn't that serious. You can do it yourself by keeping a little note book and jotting down interesting ideas that occur to you or that you see in the papers or magazines.

Make up your own little store of "new" tricks with which to surprise your family or guests of any day. Here are just a few of the little things that you can do to delight everyone who eats at your table. Adding the "new" touch in the dessert is easy since possibilities are inexhaustible.

Dessert Tips
Here's a good one. Have a good vanilla ice cream for dessert and serve each ball of it in a glass of grape juice or other fruit juice. Another dessert idea is to make waffles by your favorite recipe and adding a little grated orange rind for flavor. Serve the waffles either hot or cold with the following delicious orange sauce.

Orange Sauce
Mix together three tablespoons of cake flour, one-half cup sugar and a dash of salt. Add three-fourths of a cup of boiling water and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Pour a little over a slightly beaten egg yolk and beat vigorously, then return to the rest of the mixture and cook for a minute. Add one tablespoon butter, one-half cup orange juice, three-fourths teaspoon grated orange rind and one-fourth teaspoon grated lemon rind. Serve hot or cold. Garnish the waffles with sections of orange.

Vegetable Pancakes
Having your vegetables interestingly combined and served in the form of a pancake is a luncheon idea that is a bit unusual. The children will be delighted. Put one-half onion, two raw potatoes, two parboiled carrots, two cups of raw spinach and one-fourth of a head of lettuce through the fine cutter of the food chopper. Add two well beaten eggs and one cup of flour sifted with one teaspoon baking powder and one one-half teaspoons of salt. Mix thoroughly and fry on a greased griddle as you would pancakes. Spread with butter and serve with lemon juice. These are very good served with a poached egg on top and accompanied by a spicy tomato sauce.

A Novel Dessert
When the children come home for lunch before you have had time to prepare the dessert you had planned, or when guests drop in unexpectedly for a cup of tea, prepare this delicately flavored tidbit. Take graham crackers and arrange in a pan or baking rack. Place a marshmallow on top of each cracker and toast until the marshmallow is puffy and delicately browned.

New York—Sashes are very chic, there's no denying them, and why should we when they are very lovely things? Sometimes they swathe the waistline and knot at the back trailing to the hem of the skirt. Others tie in front or at the side, and some combine two colors and or two contrasting materials as well.

With the higher necklines integral to so many of the frocks and gowns of today, the old-time brooch has put in a claim for favor. So enticing are many of these that the claim cannot be overlooked. In art moderne, in simulated, jewels fashioned on the lines of those boxed away among the heirlooms, in the new mirror effects and in frosted glass, suggesting some rare quartz, brooches are rife among the costume accessories.

Rumba Popular
The newly favored color, rumba, has found its way into accessories, too. Sashes, gloves and purses to match it, but rumba may be added, thereby completing the rumba costume. In case you are unacquainted with rumba, it is a shade comparable to the one-time "orange."

With the popularity of brown tones, wood, the actual material, is coming out in the shape of bracelets, brooches, necklaces and clips. Some of these are inlaid with metal in geometric patterns. Compacts and cigarette cases, also, come in the new wooden material, some of which are in dark grained wood, others in woods of several colors or in various shades of the same color, with beams most prevalent.

Home-Making
By ALINE STERN
If brass is discolored, clean it with a mixture of vinegar and plenty of salt. Rinse it off with water and make sure it is thoroughly dry before applying the metal polish.

If you walls are covered with expensive wall-paper, try a little of this. It is a coat of shellac. This treatment enables the homeowner to wipe down the walls with a damp cloth when dust collects, thus preserving the life of the wall paper. Also it protects the original brightness of the colors.

There's a new aluminum gadget on the market that's an ice cream maker. It is a handy device which makes it possible to crush ice with a minimum of effort. Now the homemaker can serve cantaloupes on a bed of crushed ice mountains. Or the glass of orange juice can be stood up in it. Or later in the day, oysters on the half shell.

Photography Inventor Remembered . . . Italy Digs for Ruins

MOST of us enjoy the motion picture that talk. Before sound tracks were merged with motion pictures, there were silent pictures and before that so-called "still" pictures or photographs.

Not so long ago the one hundredth anniversary of the death of the inventor of photography was observed in France. He was Nicéphore Niepce, born in 1765 at Chalons. He was destined for the priesthood, but turned to the study of physical sciences, which interested him more.

Niepce experimented with fixed images from 1816 to 1827 at which time he announced the production of pictures by the action of light upon asphalt. He showed that when a film of silver plate coated with a solution of oil of lavender was exposed to light the asphalt became insoluble.

Similar experiments were conducted by the French painter, Daguerre, who in 1829 entered into partnership with Niepce and the two of them continued their experiments. Before Niepce could realize the full value of his discoveries and their far-reaching effect upon the entire future of photography, he died suddenly in 1833 at the age of 69 years.

Six years later, Daguerre published his process which consisted of subjecting a polished silver plate to the vapor of iodine which it became coated with the film of silver iodide. The plate was then exposed to light in the camera obscura, with the result that the silver iodide became soluble salt, afterwards removed by gently washing in water. The plate, when again presented an image in white ammonia upon a silver support, which was discovered by accident, was the first process of development of an invisible photographic image. The exposure necessary in the camera was very prolonged, varying from three minutes to thirty.

THE unchanging and reconstruction of Augustus' Ara Pacis or Altar of Peace, architectural prize of ancient Rome, a question of which the Senate voted in 13 B.C. following the Emperor's triumphal return from the campaigns in Germany and Gaul, has been decided upon by the Italian Government.

The altar was erected in the Campus Martius and represented one of the most exquisite works of the Golden Age of Augustus. Centuries of abandonment dispersed fragments of the monument far as Florence and Paris. The original bulk is still in Rome, however, but unfortunately is about twenty feet underground and covered over by a modern building.

Excavation of this ancient monument was vainly advocated for many years. In 1868 and 1869 the Ara Pacis was explored or rather despoiled and it is now feared that the portions that could not be removed must have been seriously damaged by the excavators.

In 1903 the site was again explored and for the first time the enormous difficulties of removing and reconstructing the monument elsewhere were apparent. It was then ascertained that the surviving remains of the altar served in part support for the foundations of two houses. Besides, the ruins beneath these centrally located buildings are continuously bathed in what is known as "dispersed water" or underground rivulets.

Originally, the Altar of Peace was erected upon a platform built of huge blocks of tuffa rock. It was enclosed by a wall made of marble slabs with bas-reliefs on each side and divided by a frieze with two panels. The lower panel was decorated with foliage and the figures of flying birds while the higher one reproduced the famous imperial cortege which can be seen in the fragments already recovered.

The marble enclosure was almost square, though which a door was opened in front leading to the altar which stood within a sort of chapel. Some of the original marble belonging to the altar itself is still underground.

MODES AND MANNERS

QUESTION: "Is it permissible to have as many as eight bridesmaids at a large church wedding? Should I let my sister be maid of honor or my best friend?—O. H. E."

ANSWER: At elaborate church weddings it is customary to have from five bridesmaids up to ten. There should be no doubt in your mind regarding the second question. Ask your sister by all means. Your best friend will think it strange if you do not. Why not ask your friend to be a bridesmaid?

YOU NEVER CAN TELL OUTCOME OF A MARRIAGE

By MARIAN MAYES MARTIN

A CERTAIN man in my town has recently remarried. So far so good, his first wife being decently dead and decently honored for the accepted period of a year. But still the man most concerned because everyone, with the exception of the priesthood, but turned to the study of physical sciences, which interested him more.

Past, while not disgraceful, has been hectic enough to make one uncertain as to her talent for wifehood. Besides which, she brings a child to the union, and to a man who has been more or less the bogy man to the neighborhood children because of his disreputable attitude toward them.

DOESN'T sound very promising, does it? Yet, how ridiculous for outsiders to get steam-rolled over the affair or to even venture an opinion as to the suitability of the match. When two short-tempered people, call them temperamental if you like, marry, unfortunately, the union does not make over the short tempers into a long one. When a man who never has cared for children, and gone out of his way to show it, is unfortunate enough to marry a woman who brings him not a child of his own, which might be different, but a child by another man, it looks very much as though trouble was brewing. The chances are about one in a million that such a man is going to love another man's child; and so the village sympathy should go to the child, who will probably be the innocent cause of much of the anticipated friction.

NEUROTICISM is bound to bring unhappiness in its wake. While the charitable are willing to admit that the lady may be miraculously made over by this marriage, the chances are rather against it. One wishes really for the sake of the ill-assorted family, that they would move on and start life anew where everything they did or did not do was not weighed by interested spectators and made to prove this point.

ONE wonders whether there is really a ghost of a chance for them making a go of it in an atmosphere thick with suspense, and perhaps anxiety to be the first to say "told you so." The fact that the woman in the neighborhood were all friends of the first wife, and had a great deal of sympathy for her because of what they considered the man's ill nature, is no help. The treatment of her, is not going to help matters much for the second wife.

THE fact that the ex-husband of the lady, removed from the scene, after a divorce, is also known seems to make matters worse, for while no scarlet letter is apparent on the lady's nose too smooth brow, rumor has it that he had a pretty hard time weathering the domestic tempests that were forever raging.

YET who knows but what everything may not turn out according to the old formula "they married and lived happily ever afterward?" The pity and danger is that so much of their background is known, and that they are starting a difficult enough life before the prying and too interested eyes of the community, who to a man seem to be determined on the idea that the match will be a failure.

YET how often it is the marriage that looks less likely to succeed that really does. How many, many marriages have started out under the most auspicious circumstances and failed, how many couples who seemed ideally suited to each other, have ended their honeymoon almost on the doorstep of the divorce court!

AFTER all, a couple that bring experience, even unpleasant experience, to marriage have some advantage over those who are novices. Isn't it on some such theory that the traditional popularity of widows is based? Even a bad marriage may be highly educational.

then scooped up the money. Hoag stood on the outside of the bank and acted as lookout.

After the holdup the men drove the Chrysler to Richmond Annex where they abandoned it. They then got into Hoag's car and drove to San Jose, then back up the Bayshore Highway to San Francisco where they hid out in the apartment house.

Divide Up Swag

Upon their arrival at the apartment house, the confession says, they counted the money and found that they had got $1200. However, bank authorities had previously stated that only $500 had been taken.

After counting the cash, the confession continues, the loot was "split three ways" with each of the three taking their share of the money. Travelers checks and a few bonds were burned to throw off any suspicions.

After the "split" Turner left, destination unknown, while Murphy and Hoag remained at the apartment house until their arrest. The "tip off" that resulted in the arrest was held secret.

It is understood that both Murphy and Hoag have been living on Sixth street in Richmond.

No Loot Recovered

None of the loot taken in the holdup was recovered by police. Three .38 calibre revolvers and two .32 calibre pistols, shoulder holsters, several hundred rounds of ammunition and burglar tools were allegedly found at the apartment.

The trio is also suspected of robbing the Pinole and Rodeo banks, which jobs, however, they declare they had no part in.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 26—UP—It's human nature, perhaps, to feel one's own job is arduous and difficult in comparison with the jobs of others. Here is Wesley Ruggles, of whom all Hollywood said, "He's got a mighty tough job."

It was Ruggles, you remember, who drew the directorial assignment of Mae West's "I'm No Angel." All he had to do was equal or "top" the first West film, "She Done Him Wrong," which ushered in a whole new era in motion pictures.

Wesley, who is three years younger than his brother, Charlie, looked several years older by the time he pulled "Cut!" on the final retake for Mae's second opus. And it only

I keep coming back to that word "balanced" on the back of the Chesterfield package

YOU often hear the word balance—something is out of balance—top-heavy, not on an "even keel."

What you read, "Chesterfield Cigarettes are a balanced blend," means that the right amounts of the right kinds of tobacco are welded together; that is, home-grown tobaccos, the right kind, the right quantity—are blended and cross-blended with tobaccos from Turkey and Greece.

When these tobaccos are balanced one against the other, then you have a mild cigarette.

When they are in balance, then you have a better-tasting cigarette.

May we ask you to read again the statement on the back of the Chesterfield package? May we ask you to try Chesterfield?
